Greetings by the Central Committee of the (new)Italian Communist Party to the Second National Congress of the American Communist Party — October 9-10, 2026

Dear comrades,

we send you warm, fraternal greetings and hope that the line charted by your Second National Congress will enable your Party to lead the popular masses of the USA in making strides toward the establishment of socialism, thereby contributing to the development of the conscious and organized communist movement throughout North America and the world.

The communist party is the decisive factor in the progress of the popular masses and their victory. The popular masses —and only them—can bring about the transformation humanity needs. Yet, in any given country, they can achieve this only if led by a communist party up to the task: mobilizing and organizing the popular masses to carry out the socialist revolution. The socialist revolution does not erupt; it is a protracted revolutionary people's war that we communists must promote and wage in accordance with its own specific laws.

Discontent, impatience, and revolt against the effects of the general crisis of capitalism—and the Third World War into which that crisis has escalated—are spreading among the popular masses of the USA and other imperialist countries as well. Despite the limitations of our knowledge regarding the course of events in your country, we believe that the imperialist bourgeoisie in the USA is also facing growing difficulties in ruling society—even though (1) disillusionment stemming from the defeats suffered in the last century—both in imperialist nations and in the USSR—still prevails among workers and the rest of the popular masses in the USA, and (2) the US imperialist bourgeoisie systematically employs, on a massive scale, all the resources at its disposal to manipulate the minds and hearts of the masses and to brutalize them as much as it is capable. More favorable conditions for the resurgence of the conscious and organized communist movement have been created. Only this will put an end to the era of dark reaction that followed the exhaustion of the first global wave of the socialist revolution. Only the advance and victory of the socialist revolution—at least in some imperialist countries—can halt the catastrophic course of events that the imperialist bourgeoisie is imposing upon humanity.

The 20th century was the century of the first wave of the proletarian revolution, a combination of the socialist revolution and the new-democratic revolution (anti-colonial and anti-imperialist). Following the victory of the October Revolution, the founding of the Communist International, and the construction of socialism in the USSR, communist parties were established in every corner of the globe, and the first socialist countries were formed: the People's Republics of Eastern Europe, Korea, China, Cuba, Vietnam, and Laos. The primary cause of the defeat suffered by the communist movement and the exhaustion of the first global wave of the proletarian revolution lay in the limitations of the communist parties regarding their understanding of the conditions, forms, and outcomes of the class struggle within imperialist countries.

We are therefore confident that, lead by the communist worldview, a correct assessment of the first wave of the proletarian revolution, and a sound analysis of the course of events, you—like us—will overcome the divisions and backwardness that currently keep the communist movement in our countries weak. Together, we will transform the resistance put up by the popular masses against the measures imposed by the imperialist bourgeoisie into a new—and this time victorious—advance of the socialist revolution.

Long live the American Communist Party!

Long live the solidarity, friendship and brotherhood of people struggling against imperialism and for socialism!
