PARTIDUL SOCIALIST ROMÂN

„Schimbarea e tot mai aproape!”

1st of October 2026

Dear comrades from the American Communist Party,

The Romanian Socialist Party warmly salutes you and extends its congratulations on the occasion of your Second National Congress. The establishment of your party two years ago was a great moment in the history of American communism and in the history of our real movement, internationally. Finally, the American working people can find the vision of Marx and Engels in an authentic and genuinely revolutionary manner, and finally we communists from all around the world can see that the specter of our real movement is revived across the fifty states, and that it will inevitably contribute a great deal to the destruction of the plutocratic finance-capitalist dictatorship that keeps the American working people impoverished and divided. Your ability to build something anew and to turn it into a force to be reckoned with in such a short amount of time is truly impressive, and we can confidently say that only a communist movement that does what the American Communist Party does can hope to create a true “land of the free” and “home of the brave” in North America – a country of the people, by the people, and for the people (that is, not for plutocrats and not for foreign powers). Dear comrades, as you yourselves know, Karl Marx once wrote that “the workingmen of Europe felt instinctively that the star-spangled banner carried the destiny of their class”. We feel that the revolutionary legacy of 1776, the emancipatory legacy of 1865, and the legacy of the original CPUSA’s founding in 1919 are best preserved and most faithfully carried forward by the American Communist Party. The America of the plutocrats is not the original America, but a parasite that uses its symbols to facilitate the exploitation and oppression of the American people. We believe that the true America is found in the working people of America, in their class struggle and in their unity – a unity which can only be achieved under the guidance of a communist vanguard party with a scientific party line.

Comrades, both of our parties deal with usual challenges, but we also deal with unprecedented challenges as well. Many reactionary groups try to libel, slander, and infiltrate our parties, yet both of our parties remain resilient and have a great fighting spirit. In our country, we cannot call our party communist and our official political program must be carefully curated, but we still organize and we still uphold our principles. Since the 1989 coup d’état, Romania has been turned into a semi-colony, exploited by Western finance-capital networks. Even after decades of reactionary propaganda, our comprador regime couldn’t stop circa two-thirds of Romanians from viewing things radically differently from them. The comprador regime is becoming more and more dysfunctional and desperate – they cancel elections, amplify indoctrination, and oppress more and more dissident forces. This is a normal challenge.

Two of the most pressing issues today, comrades, are AI and the question of war. Here in Southeastern Europe, we may just bear the brunt of the latter. In 1939 – four score and seven years ago, to borrow Lincoln’s expression – the European theatre of the Second World War opened, partly due to Western powers' rejection of all Soviet proposals for a joint anti-fascist alliance. Since the end of that war, the Western powers have claimed that they will never allow such events to happen again; yet today Europe is once again flirting with war. Here, in Southeastern Europe, our party remains committed to peace, a reason for which the comprador regime may not tolerate us for long, legality notwithstanding – especially if another comparable war is truly inevitable. In the short term, this topic is a pressing matter for all communist parties in Europe. Another important topic is AI. In the long term, the question of AI is even more interesting. The recent development of the global productive forces offers us something very valuable: artificial intelligence – or "superintelligence", as Donald Trump insists on calling it. This is an unprecedented challenge. The Romanian Socialist Party considers that party research into AI, the development of proficiency in the usage of AI, and the establishment of a strong AI infrastructure for many party activities is a crucial pursuit at the present moment. We think the American Communist Party offers a great example to non-ruling communist parties from all around the world of what can be done with new technology, and we think that we are ultimately entering an era of great optimism for the real movement.

AI represents a very promising phenomenon for us all, and we must do our best to learn as much as we can about it. It may just be what tips the scales in favor of the working people, on the condition that we adopt a scientific understanding of it, and use it well. Ultimately, we think your party motto describes our own optimistic view of the future even better than we could – "the future belongs to the working class".

Once again, we salute you and extend our congratulations on the occasion of your Second National Congress, and we look forward to working together in the near future.

Long live the American Communist Party, and long live the Romanian Socialist Party!

In solidarity,

The Romanian Socialist Party (PSR)
